ALISE 2003

January 21-24, Philadelphia

 CONFERENCE 2003
alise

Double Tree Hotel Philadelphia
Philadelphia, PA

Association for Library and Information Science Education

Join ALISE in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, in 2003

Message from the Program Committee and ALISE Board of Directors

Welcome to Philadelphia. I hope that you will take time to enjoy the attractions of this wonderful city, connect with friends and colleagues and welcome the new comers to our conference and our Association. The conference has been carefully planned by the Conference Committee chaired by Peter Liebscher. Maureen Thompson, our Executive Director, has brought her expertise to bear in a variety of ways. Throughout the year, our members have generously contributed their time and expertise to ALISE. The ALISE Board has continued on a course that balances innovative approaches to meeting member needs with fiscal responsibility and strategic vision. As President, I would especially like to thank our corporate partners whose generosity enhances the conference experience for us all.

The 2003 conference theme, Declaration of Interdependence: Connecting Researchers and Practitioners, addresses the relationship between research and practice and the contributions made by each. As always, I hope that you will join with the ALISE leadership in asking the critical questions, seeking relevant answers and having a wonderful time in Philadelphia.

Cordially

Elizabeth Aversa
President

Peter Liebscher
Program Chair, President-elect

Important Reasons to Attend This Conference

- Network with experts within and outside the discipline on matters of faculty recruitment and retention.
- Examine predictions for graduate education.
- Discuss multicultural and international LIS education.
- Learn strategies and techniques for teaching archivists to provide service in an increasingly electronic environment.
- Learn about technological innovations and the promises of online delivery for LIS education.
- Become informed about the new generation of integrated library systems and how they are affecting the library and information science curriculum.
- Receive up-to-date legislative reports and learn about the importance of advocacy work for information professionals.
- Learn what you can do to help achieve ALISE's objectives, all of which can impact the library and information science curriculum for the better and make your job easier.
- Get involved!

EXPLORE THE ATTRACTIONS OF PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, most famous as the birthplace of American independence and home of the Liberty Bell, is the fifth-largest city in the United States and the second-largest on the East Coast. Philadelphia offers a unique variety of attractions, culture, entertainment and activity. The city's diverse neighborhoods bring the best of Philadelphia to life.

- Historic and Waterfront District. The city's historic and water front park begins on 6th Street, just four blocks east of the Convention Center, and continues to Penn's Landing on the banks of the Delaware River. The site of Philadelphia's earliest settlements, the neighborhood is full of 18th-century influence including Colonial-era homes and cobble stone streets. In addition to the Liberty Bell and Independence Hall, Independence National Historical Park - America's most historic square mile is home to numerous historical buildings and sites, most of which are free to the public.
- Old City. Your exploration of America's heritage continues north of Market Street in the city's first commercial district. In addition to Betsy Ross's home and Elfreth's Alley-America's oldest continuously residential street - Old City is known for the most exciting collection of art galleries on the East Coast.
- South Street. The "hippest street in Philadelphia," South Street is famous for its eclectic shops, diverse restaurants and dynamic nightlife. There's no better place to people-watch on a Friday or Saturday night.
- Washington Square District. Centered around one of the public squares planned by William Penn, this area of the city connects the historic and commercial districts. Walking through the quaint neighborhoods you will discover Jewelers Row and Antique Row, two of the city's specialty shopping areas, as well as the Walnut Street and Forrest theaters.
- Chinatown. The "Chinese Friendship Gate" at 10th and Arch Streets welcome you to this bustling community that has established itself as a center for fine art, culture, and the very best in Asian culinary delights for more than a century.
- Parkway/Museum District. Stretching from City Hall to The Philadelphia Museum of Art, the Benjamin Franklin Parkway is flanked by some of the city's most acclaimed institutions. The Parkway is also the location of numerous festivals and events throughout the year, including Fourth of July fireworks. Logan Circle, one of the public "squares" in the city's original design, is home to the magnificent Swann Fountain.
- Rittenhouse Square District. One of the most prestigious addresses in Philadelphia, Rittenhouse Square is famous for its world-class shopping and restaurants. Part of William Penn's original city plan, this beautiful public square is a popular destination for Center City residents and visitors alike.
- Manayunk. Nestled along the banks of the Schuylkill River just west of Center City, Manayunk is one of the newest hot spots in the area. Named a National Historic District in 1983, "Philadelphia's Main Street" boasts more than 65 chic boutiques and galleries and dozens of restaurants.
- Chestnut Hill. Cobblestoned Germantown Avenue is surrounded by art galleries, restaurants and specialty and antiques shops, located on the city's northwest boundary.
- The Avenue of the Arts. Encompassing North and South Broad Street, The Avenue of the Arts is one of the premier cultural destinations in the city and the region and home to the Academy of Music, the Merriam Theater, Wilma Theater, Freedom Theatre and the dazzling Regional Performing Arts Center to be completed in 2001.
- El Centro de Oro. In this vibrant heart of Philadelphia's Latino community you will find music, shopping and dining, as well as extensive bilingual services.
